1. Any device with internet connection and access to the application sends a request to the server.

2. The server processes the received request and access to database, either to obtain, edit or create.

3. Server sends response to device with the required data.

4. From any device user can change the status or modify an order, depending of user role.

5. The system notifies by mail about the status of the order to the requestor of the order.