Step 1: Upload the images to the software.

Step 2: The necessary operations are made depending on the user's choice.

Step 3: The resulting images are displayed.

Preliminary: The entry point of the process requires an representative image of the cells.