The process of chemical pickling in Corpacero S.A.S. requires stability in HCl levels to properly remove impurities from the steel sheets they use as unprocessed material for their products. These impurities accumulate in the tanks and decrease the concentration of hydrochloric acid, affecting the company's costs.