

The request api-key is validated and is checked if apiKey's role is allowed to perform target action.

In this part of the flow, lambda functions are orchestrated according to the order's shipping type.

Microservices communicate with the database to store the order's relevant data and modify collections registers as needed.